DIARY NOTES

DD/S

15 May 1961

1. At the Deputies' Meeting this morning it was announced that Roger Hilsman's office at the Department of State is taking over Joe Scott's functions; in other words, the Hilsman office will now be the point of contact in the Department of State for both intelligence and operations.

2. [REDACTED] talked with me about the preparation of CIA budget projections in compliance with his recent paper, and I told him that the Comptroller would be able to do most of this.

4. In compliance with Mr. Dulles' request, I telephoned Mr. J. George Stewart, the Architect at the Capitol, and invited him to visit our new building. He would like to do so and will let me know when he can spare the time.

5. [REDACTED] was up to brief me on a dispatch he is sending to [REDACTED] about his home leave, his next assignment, etc. Jack proposed that he be entered on active duty as a Captain in the Navy and then take home leave, which would be charged against his CIA leave. I told Bob that I would have no part of this kind of subterfuge and that Jack should take his leave as a CIA civilian prior to entering on duty with the Navy. After entering on duty with the Navy he must comply with Navy rules and regulations. To do otherwise would jeopardize our relations with the Navy in this regard.

6. [REDACTED] were up to discuss the [REDACTED] case with me further. I apprised them of my conversations with [REDACTED] and told them that it appeared very doubtful at this point that Chuck actually would be called to active duty.
